

Boosting creativity thanks to EtherSound

Context

Cité de la Musique is a vast cultural venue located in Paris (Parc de la Vilette) and dedicated to all forms of music. Its large program includes concerts, exhibitions, shows but also part of its activity is dedicated to education, with the venue organising workshops and offering documentation to the public.

Within the Educational Department, Christophe Rosenberg is hosting a workshop dedicated to musical teamwork creativity. Participants compose their own music on an audio workstation connected to EtherSound via a console and its EtherSound card (AuviTran AVY16-ES100).

Christophe Rosenberg in his workplace, surrounded by EtherSound connected equipments

All workstations are independent and connected in real time through the AuviTran matrix AVM500-ES.

Products involved

- Six Yamaha consoles all connected to EtherSound via AVY16-ES100 cards
- A star architecture built up through the AVM500-ES matrix

Main users advantages

Real time connectivity of all audio equipments, in high quality and without latency
 Allowing teamwork compositions
 Very easy set-up and addition of new equipment

Installations 2010